Ethics Feedback

The Research Ethics Committee was held on the 12th March. We had really positive feedback and they were particularly impressed with the amount of Public and Patient Involvement (PPI) – a big big thank you to the YPAG!

The team have responded to their queries and we hope to receive favourable opinion soon!

The last few weeks have presented us with a rapidly changing landscape, and obviously we are all affected too. As per the Government's advice, for now all research activity with patients as well as staff training has stopped.

However, we are reviewing this with the NIHR and putting in a plan to keep READY ticking over until we can get going again. This pause, while disconcerting for everyone, is not catastrophic.

We will of course be watching what is happening, and as soon as we can safely get people back together, we will get the study underway again. If it is at all possible restarting again in August would mean that we can get young people into the exercise sessions for the autumn term.

In the meantime, keep safe, we will keep in touch, and if you need anything just let us know.

Daksha and David

Unfortunately, due to the Coronavirus, the second READY Young Person Advisory Group (YPAG) meeting scheduled for March had to be cancelled. But our YPAG members have been busy reviewing the questionnaires to be used in the feasibility study and sending us some really useful feedback - thank you YPAG! We hope to re-arrange our next meeting soon.
